Food-Info on Open Day

On April 14 Wageningen University had an open day for prospective students. This included a market on Food Science and Food Safety. Food-Info.net was represented with food related information, free booklets, books and a contest. Over 70 people participated in the contest and there was a lot of interest from the visitors. If you want Food-Info to be present on your event, please see : <http://www.food-info.net/activities.htm>

Food-Info

The magazine Foods Matter (www.foodsmatter.com), edition May 2007, has published a small item about the Food-Info.net website. They say that it is an amazingly informative multi-lingual site and that they have a splendidly comprehensive worldwide links section that will put you in touch with anyone from the Grape Growers of Ontario to the New Zealand Ministry of Health.
